ECHOES OF THE CONVENTION.

Populists Active in Endeavoring to Profit by the Bolt.

MANTLE WILL SUPPORT TELLER

As an Individual He Says He Cannot Uphold the Republican Party—Populists Claim to be Neutral on the Tariff Question.

St Louis June 19.—A few belated straggl[illegible] echoing the turmoil of the past four days b[illegible] about all that remains [illegible] to-night of the great convention [illegible] exodus began immediately upon adjournment, and every outgoing train [illegible] since that hour has been crowded. The last to arrive were the legion of newspaper correspondents and they are the last to leave. Most of the uniformed clubs left this morning. All were escorted to the Union station by local marching clubs. There remain however, a number of men who added an exciting chapter to political history. The dissenting delegates who left the convention were busy today as earnest men can be. Senator Lee Mantle of Montana, who stayed in the convention but voted against the platform and the candidate, in a late edition of The Chronicle this evening casts his lot with the bolters. His signed statement follows:

Although not having actually withdrawn from the late Republican convention, I am nevertheless firmly of the opinion that in the adoption of the single gold standard the Republican party has abandoned one of its cardinal principles of faith and I cannot support it in that position. I believe that Henry M. Teller represents in the fullest and highest sense the true principles and purposes of the Republican party as advocated by Lincoln, Grant and Blaine. I fully indorse the suggestion of his candidacy for President and do not hesitate to say that if nominated I shall give him my hearty support. And I urge upon all who believe in the principles for which he stands to do the same.

I take this position in my individual capacity and not as a delegate representing the State of Montana.

"LEE MANTLE."

Populists Active.

Since the dramatic incidents of yesterday the Populists have been active in endeavoring to profit by the bolt. A hastily called conference of Populist leaders was held at the Lindell hotel today. There were present: Chairman Taubeneck of the national committee; A. Rose, the national committeeman from Missouri; J. H. Davis, national committeeman from Texas; Eugene Smith, national committeeman from Illinois, and a large number of local Populists.

Chairman Taubeneck would not give the details of the conference, but said the principal topic discussed was how to proceed in tendering or accepting overtures from all the friends of free silver.

Mr. Taubeneck was anxious to know whether the silver men would pledge their votes and influence to the party that would name Senator Teller as its standard bearer, on this subject, seemed to hinge the whole weight of the coming statement from the Populists.

"The Populist party is perfectly neutral on the tariff question," said Chairman Taubeneck. "We will accept either a high or low tariff if the main or party affirms our votes on the silver question. That we consider the main question before the country to-day."

Others at the conference seemed anxious to know if the Democratic party was likely to take up Teller.

One of the results of the conference will be an address to the country, which will shortly appear.

Departing Delegates.

Mr. T. C. Platt left for New York at 8:30 this morning. He was accompanied by Congressman Odell, State Chairman Hackett, J. Sloat Fassett and Mr. Lou Payne.

Mr. Chauncey M. Depew took his departure at 12 o'clock over the Big Four route. A number of other New Yorkers left on the same train. Among them were Congressman Zenas E. Payne and Mr. Lauterbach, chairman of the New York county committee.

Mr. Lauterbach expressed great satisfaction with the platform, particularly with its gold plank. He and his New York associates, he said, did not succeed in doing all that they had hoped to do, but they were gratified at their success in helping to formulate a platform which admits of no misinterpretation so far as its money feature is concerned.

"The New York county organization of which I am chairman," said Mr. Lauterbach, "will cheerfully cooperate with the other organizations in the campaign. We shall give McKinley our support, and will carry New York State by a majority of 20,000."

It is learned that the declaration in the money plank which specifically states that "we favor all measures designed to maintain inviolable the obligations of the United States" was inserted at the suggestion of Mr. Lauterbach. It has special reference to our coin bonds, and contrasts the Republican party with the present both of the interest and principal in gold.

A Campaign Emblem.

The following letter has been received by the United Press for publication:

St. Louis, June 19.

"To the Republican Party of the United States:

"In recognition of the courtesy of Mrs. H. W. R. Strong of Los Angeles, California, presenting to the Republican national convention the gold silver and the emblem of each State, the adopted Republican emblem of 1892, a mark of California plumes (the only American bird not cultivated for the beautiful), I hereby recommend to the party the use of this emblem in red, white and blue ribbons, mounted fan-shape on a staff for parades and interior decorations.

"M. A. HANNA, Chairman."

TELLER'S COMPLIMENTS.

He Was Deeply Moved by Manifestations of Personal Esteem.

St. Louis, June 19.—Senator Teller of Colorado feels in need of a rest after his exciting duties of the past fortnight. In pursuance of this purpose, he will leave tomorrow for Fulton, Ills., to visit his aged mother, at the residence of his sister. To be alone with a book or more. He will make the trip in water to avoid the fatigue of railway travel. It is his intention to participate actively in the campaign after the Chicago convention will have made its nomination and the platforms of the two parties are fairly in view. It is doubtful if he will come east. He believes the great middle west offers a promising field for missionary work and it is in that region that he will be most generally employed.

The withdrawal from the Republican ranks with which he has been identified for more than a third of a century is, he says, the most serious step he has ever taken. He realizes fully its responsibility and yet he does not see how he could have acted differently holding financial views so diametrically opposed to those which the party has adopted.

Not yet the sundering of these political ties was not without its compensations. These compensations were found in the flattering [illegible] which were paid to him by the Republican conventions associated with his name. Well is he entitled to these tributes. Especially prominent were the tributes of Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, speaking with [illegible] Teller this morning, Mr. Teller said:

"While my relations with Lodge have always been pleasant, they have not been intimate. When I finished my speech in the committee room, announcing my intended withdrawal from the convention, Lodge came to me to reply. I anticipated a severe criticism from him, and other friends present, to my surprise, Lodge said: 'With great feeling and in a manner so kindly as to touch the heart, he said: 'Well, I never loved him more than I do now.' Well, I never loved him more than I do now. I was touched by all that Lodge said.'

SILWART'S OPINION.

Action of Senator Teller Significant in Highest Degree.

New York, June 19.—Senator Silwart, of Nevada, who is at the Hoffman, regards the action of Senator Teller and the men who followed him out of the St. Louis convention as significant in the highest degree.

Senator Teller represents the sentiment of nine-tenths of the people west of the Mississippi river, and two-thirds of the people of the United States. To-day it is a hopeless sign and very regrettable that men could have been found in the convention to vote as they did against the consolidated bank influence of Europe and America.

"The friends of silver have succeeded in electing a majority of the delegates in favor of the United States and against English rule, and are anxious to make an honest effort to rescue the party which Cleveland betrayed, from the control of Pierpont Morgan, the Belmonts and their associates. It remains to be seen whether politics and intrigue will debauch the convention at Chicago."

Galush A. Grow, Congressman at large from Pennsylvania, says that the Republican bolt will not mean a loss of more than 75 votes in the electoral college.

ALTGELD'S HOWL.

Illinois's Populist Governor Gives His Ideas of the Convention.

Springfield, Ill., June 19.—Gov. Altgeld to-day was asked to give his impression of the action of the St. Louis convention. He said: "The Republican party had reached its high water mark in point of strength ten months ago; since then it has been steadily draining. The convention was one of the most mediocre in character ever held by that great party, and showed that the party is now at the opposite pole from what it was when it nominated Lincoln. Then its conventions were made up of statesmen, orators and patriots, and there was a noticeable absence of those men and of the influences which represent only self and greed and which seek to control affairs by base and corrupt methods. This last convention was noted for the scarcity of statesmen and orators and was manipulated in such a way that it will be known in history in future as 'Mark Hanna's trust.' Both of its chairmen were corporation-hired men.

"It used to be said of some of the territories that no man could move in their fashionable circles unless he had either committed a murder or stolen some horses, and in the St. Louis convention no man who had not manipulated Congress or ravished a legislature or seduced a judge in the interest of organized greed was considered worthy of the notice of Republican gentlemen.

"The platform can be summed up in two capital G's—Gold and Greed, and stands for paralysis and misery, and considering the antecedents of the candidate and the manner in which he was put before the public I think it is clear that he is to be only a servant who will carry out orders.

"Long before November the ticket will have upon it the name of the American people, and if the Democratic party will be true to its great mission and will neither straddle nor compromise, but stand for the interest, the welfare and the rights of the great suffering masses, then the idea of November will witness the complete annihilation of that plutocratic association which without right or authority calls itself the Republican party."

Boies in Conference.

Chicago, June 19.—Ex-Gov. Horace Boies, who is the free silver candidate of the Iowa Democracy for first place on the Presidential ticket, arrived in Chicago this morning from his home in Waterloo. He spent most of the day in his room at the Palmer house attending to private business and disclaiming any political mission, but his coming was purposely aired so that he could hold a conference with the Democrats who are interested in securing the nomination from this center with Charles A. Walsh of Ottumwa, secretary of the State Central Committee, Judge Van Wagen, who will be the delegate at large in place of Mr. Poles, S. A. Bleakmer of Creston, J. S. Murphy of Dubuque and S. R. Davis, who is in charge of the Boies literary bureau of the Iowa delegation to the national convention.

Iowa's choice declined to speak on the political situation for publication, pleading he had no time to spare from his personal affairs. He returned home on the midnight train. Secretary Walsh admitted to the United Press reporter that the Governor came here partly to confer with his campaign managers, and see that his literary bureau is put in working order and partly for the formal opening of the Iowa headquarters at the Palmer house. Secretary Walsh said he felt sure the convention would carry a ticket without regard to the free silver Republican bolt, and none of the delegates would demand Boies as to Teller being on the ticket.

New York Democrats.

New York, June 19.—I. W. Hinckley, chairman of the Democratic State committee, [illegible] with Wm. C. Whitney and that the latter [illegible] State convention at Saratoga. Mr. Whitney will probably be elected from one of the districts in this city.

Mr. Hinckley further said that he favored the election of Mr. Whitney as chairman of the convention and that he will urge Mr. Whitney very strongly to accept the position and make a speech voicing the sentiment of this State on the currency question.

Bradley Says He's Pleased.

Frankfort, Ky., June 19.—Gov. Bradley, who is one of the [illegible] returned this morning from the St. Louis convention. The Governor says he is well pleased with the result of the convention, as since his withdrawal he had been most interested in seeing the adoption of the strong gold platform. He thinks McKinley, Hobart and gold will sweep the country this fall.

Hobart Hedged a Bound.

Columbus, O., June 19.—Garrett A. Hobart, the Republican candidate for the Vice Presidency, passed through the city to-night, on his way home. He was with a small party on a Pennsylvania special and did not go from here to Canton to call upon McKinley as expected. There was no demonstration at the station.

AT THE HOME OF McKINLEY.

How the Day Was Spent by the Man of Destiny.

NUMEROUS CONGRATULATIONS.

Dispatches Came in from All Parts of the Country—Returning Delegates Also Hopped in to Pay Respects to The Nominee.

Canton, O., June 19.—Canton was awakened early and early this morning notwithstanding the fact that a large proportion of the population did not retire celebrating the nomination of McKinley, still many of the town already lies on the temporary commercial aspect peculiar to the scene of large gatherings. Bicycles with broken bridges and fans for sale throng the streets hawking their wares, and the variety of these is simply amazing. Opposite the McKinley residence a large tent has been erected, under which the hungry and thirsty wayfarer may find refreshments at the hands of scores of ladies. The McKinley grounds presented a disorderly appearance this morning, the beautiful lawn the pride and beauty of Cantonese homes, was bare and brown as if it had been swept by fire. A stream of water was played upon its surface with the hope of preserving or restoring it to its former sightly appearance.

Major and Mrs. McKinley arose this morning much refreshed by a good night's rest and fearing none the worse for yesterday's fatiguing experience. During the night a mass of telegrams had accumulated covering a large desk and running into the hundreds in number. Immediately after breakfast the Major addressed himself to the perusal of these and while thus engaged received a member of the committee in charge of the preparations for the local demonstration on the 27th inst., in connection with the Tippecanoe club of Cleveland, and which will be the real opening of the campaign here.

Congratulations.

Among the dispatches received was the following from the Vice Presidential nominee:

"St. Louis, Mo., June 19.—Hon. William McKinley, Canton, O.: Accept my heartiest congratulations and those of the New Jersey delegation.

"GARRETT A. HOBART."

To which the Major replied:

Hon. Garrett A. Hobart, St. Louis, Mo.: I send you my cordial congratulations and wish you might visit me on your way home.

WILLIAM McKINLEY."

Senator Allison telegraphed as follows:

"Dubuque, Ia., June 18.—Hon. William McKinley, Canton, O.: Accept my sincere and hearty congratulations upon your nomination. W. B. ALLISON."

The following are sample messages:

Benjamin Harrison, M. D., Crawfordsville, Ind.: "The negroes of Indiana are well pleased."

John T. Mack, Sandusky: "Your nomination means so much for our common cause."

Senator-elect Wellington, Maryland: "Maryland will give you eight electoral votes in November."

George Alfred Townsend, Gapland, Md.: "Army correspondents laid their corner stone on South Mountain, Maryland, while you were being nominated. Come back here where you served hot coffee to your regiment and dedicate our memorial as President-elect."

S. A. Perkins, chairman national committee American Republican College: "We will do everything in our power to roll up a big majority for the advocate of protection."

Colonel Mrs. Fred D. Grant to Mrs. McKinley: "We send your and our future President heartfelt and joyful congratulations."

Russell B. Harrison, Terre Haute: "Please accept my hearty congratulations. Success in November."

M. G. Bulkeley: "Accept the hearty congratulations of the Connecticut delegation."

Charles W. Parrish: "Oregon delegation congratulates the nation on your nomination."

W. J. Wilson, New York: "You have my hand, heart and pocketbook for President."

"M. B. Carpin: "Wyoming is happy; the nation will be redeemed and workingmen will work."

"Julia Dent Grant (widow of Gen. U. S. Grant): "Accept congratulations for yourself and Mrs. McKinley."

Morris M. Estee: "You will carry California."

Senator Lodge: "All I can do to secure your triumphant election and a Republican victory will be done."

Chauncey M. Depew: "I have attended both national conventions, and I have left one more perfectly satisfied with the ticket and platform."

Bishop Vincent of the Methodist Episcopal church to Mrs. McKinley: "I appreciate as no one else can your husband's worth, power, nobility and tenderness."

Congratulations were also received from innumerable other individuals and organizations.

Preparations for a Reception.

Shortly after noon preparations began making for the reception for the returning Cantonese and the neighboring houses began filling up with residents of the city. Market street, on which the McKinley residence stands, is the site of numerous handsome residences surrounded by wide spreading green lawns. These with the exception of which were not confined to the houses alone, but covered the grounds as well, made a brilliant and attractive scene, heightened by the bright dresses of scores of Cantonese beautiful women and girls.

The McKinley house was a busy place, in a quiet way. A stream of callers, mostly residents of the surrounding country, claimed the Major's frequent presence on the porch for a handshake. The few friends in the library, varied by frequent [illegible] where Mr. McKinley and a party of fifty friends spent the day. Incidents more or less interesting were not wanting, as for instance the arrival of J. W. Smith, a colored man "of color," who had called upon seeing the Major to present in person an application for a position. He failed to see him, however.

There was an unexpected delay in the arrival of the train and it was after 6 o'clock when the music of the band announced the approach of the delegation. As they came up on Market street a delegation of [illegible] from Tippecanoe and Mahoning counties marched up a parallel street and then countermarched, entered the yard front and form completely filling it. At that time the adjoining streets were found fully 10,000 people being within sight of the house.

A Memorable Scene.

Mr. McKinley received the triumphant pilgrims under the trees in the side yard and [illegible] the occasion was a memorable scene. Standing bareheaded just in the corner of the house, Mrs. McKinley sitting in a window behind him from which she could see and hear all that occurred, was the friend and neighbor of the excited and enthusiastic throng, the center of interest of a whole [illegible] but outwardly the flattering of the [illegible] would not be expressed. Instead [illegible] officers of the assembly [illegible] then to expressions of great esteem and affection.

When quiet had been restored Hon. H. W. Taylor of [illegible] district, addressed the Major:

"The delegation which a few days left Canton with high hopes [illegible] with those hopes realized [illegible] knowledge that as you are loved here, so are you loved wherever the Republicans live. We know the [illegible] loyalty [illegible] you will [illegible] all thanks [illegible] will [illegible] to see you home again." (Ch[illegible])

New York Callers.

While this neighborhood reception and reunion was in progress the [illegible] had been invaded by the [illegible] of the McKinley league of New York including the 17 McKinley delegates from that State. Their train was held at the station for the call to be made and at the time was previous. Mr. McKinley hurried through the house and on the front porch faced the 200 eager-faced New Yorkers, who split the air with a [illegible] through the door John E. Milholland acted as master of ceremonies and calling for order said they would be addressed by the next Governor of New York and the next President of the United States.

Mr. Warner Miller introduced Major McKinley in a few words and he responded as follows:

"My Fellow Citizens of New York: It gives me very great pleasure to meet and greet you here at my home today. It was most generous on your part to do it. Passed in your journey to the East long enough to give me the pleasure of meeting you face to face. As we have to do this year, my fellow citizens is to keep close to the people (loud cheering). Harken to the voice of the people. Have faith in the people and if we do that the people will win for us a triumph for the great masterful principle which in the years of the past has given us years of prosperity."

A few remarks by Mr. George E. Matthews of Buffalo presiding of the [illegible] closed the speech-making and the members hastily took their departure and resumed the journey homeward.

While the New York [illegible] dinner-[illegible] man from Youngstown, named [illegible] sang a song which he composed and wrote for the campaign in their great entertainment.

Among the guests [illegible] was Mr. Webb C. Hayes of Fremont, son of the late ex-President.

DEPEW'S POPULARITY.

One of the Most Conspicuous Men in the Convention.

St. Louis, June 19.—Mr. Chauncey M. Depew of New York, never had a more flattering opportunity to convert a Presidential from [illegible] than was presented to him yesterday. It was part of well-founded gossip [illegible] the Southern hotel last night that [illegible] effort was made at one [illegible] of yesterday's proceedings to induce Mr. Depew to put his name to go before the country for second honors.

From the moment of his arrival in the hall until [illegible] was conspicuous as one of the most conspicuous distinguished men in the [illegible]. His first appearance on the floor was the signal for a vigorous handclasping from both the galleries and the [illegible] delegates. These evidences of popularity were frequently repeated.

So frequent were these [illegible] that it was obvious that they present desire [illegible] in this manner their selection for the great New York Republican. This was conspicuously so when at the close of the day he arose for the first time to second the motion to make McKinley's nomination unanimous. It was followed by a wave of applause of greater intensity and duration than any which had preceded it. It was these evidences of popularity that led some of Mr. Depew's enthusiastic friends in certain of the delegations to request permission to nominate him for the Vice Presidency.

While he was in office flattered at the sincerity of purpose displayed by these gentlemen he does not appear to have been at all influenced by the suggestion. Politely but firmly he declined any suggestion of his name in connection with the second place and while discouraging all efforts in that direction quietly used his influence with the New York delegation to support the Eastern candidate, Mr. Hobart of New Jersey.

Ever since Hackenberger won the Lefor Day road race last year upon an old and heavy wheel he has been a hot favorite with the Denver people, and he has gradually come out of obscurity and he has had some training. The wheelmen, however, have steadily maintained that Hamilton with his experience at track racing and years of training would prove the better man in a test race, and after months of discussion and careful preparation the two men were brought together to-day under the most favorable of conditions. Both rode wheels of [illegible] and both were in good condition for the great [illegible] possible to be made.

They were started from opposite sides of the track and the race was swift from the start, the five miles being made in 11 2, the first ten in 24 16. BICYCLE LOSSES AND GAINS

The New York Journal [illegible] the losses [illegible] bicycle business [illegible] of 60th [illegible] business fell off [illegible] New York livery men have disposed of [illegible] of their horses and put hacks in their stalls instead. And still the horses and carriages are [illegible] in the market, and that [illegible] two-thirds of the livery horses of the metropolis have been thrown upon the market at any price they would bring.

The dealers in vehicles, harness and saddlery report an equal loss of $[illegible] more. The riders claim their business has been injured to the extent of $[illegible] a year and the blacksmiths $[illegible] [illegible] jewelry [illegible] railroads at [illegible] $[illegible]. The editor of The Iron Age [illegible] points a falling off of 20 per cent in the trade of that [illegible] of the leading bookstores of New York [illegible] a loss of 2[illegible] per cent of its sales of light reading to the bicycle.

Five years ago only 6 [illegible] were made and sold in this country. Colonel Pope of Boston, the maker of one of the leading wheels, says there were [illegible] bicycles sold in 1895 and that [illegible] more will pass into the hands of purchasers. At an average cost of $[illegible] this means the [illegible] will spend $[illegible] wheels in 1896 and it is estimated that $[illegible] more will be paid for wheeling incidentals such as lamps, [illegible] cyclometers, etc. To these sums must be added a large expenditure for repairs, clothing, tours, expenses. Altogether it is believed that not less than $[illegible] will be paid out by the wheeling fraternity for the gratification of their much loved [illegible].

It does not however appear that the money charged to the bicycle account [illegible] represent cash actually [illegible] from other expenditures. [illegible] the [illegible] regulation has been successful, where it has been attempted but has not succeeded, and where it has not been tried. Mrs. Strickland, a prominent and successful lawyer of Detroit, Mich., and her course will consist of [illegible] of practical lectures [illegible] and art of [illegible] preparative [illegible] for regular summer school [illegible] that will admit to both of the [illegible] or either [illegible] taken separately.

It is unnecessary to recapitulate here the many [illegible] which the successful summer [illegible] hold homes to this city. It would seem a misfortune if for any reason the [illegible] work that has so [illegible] should be lost, and we sincerely hope that [illegible] both freely if [illegible] will be sufficient to [illegible] efforts and expenditures [illegible] the school in [illegible].

It is simply a question of which [illegible] Colorado for the Democrats.

[illegible] like other Arctic explorers, comes [illegible] by the pastor of the Pole. [illegible] already [illegible] for another expedition. He has chartered the small steamer Hope and will sail from Sydney, Cape Breton, about July 15.

Senator Teller [illegible] Democrat who does [illegible] Democrats [illegible] to follow [illegible].

[illegible] policy of [illegible] the American [illegible] but we do not [illegible] of that [illegible]. It is [illegible] of Americans to hate a traitor at sight.

Republicans will not jump out of the party until they see what sort of a [illegible] they are going to jump into. And when they do see, it is less than ever likely that they will jump.

Fifteen delegates besides those of Colorado followed Senator Teller out of the convention. Many times that number who are sound money bimetallists, remained.

The Republican party is pledged to promote international bimetallism, and the Republican party has a way of keeping its pledges.

It is definitely known that Levi P. Morton is not a candidate for Vice President.

A [illegible] of the war in Mexico has gone to raising Havana tobacco and with good success.

An exchange speaks of a partially successful attempt at suicide. But furnishes no translation.

It is now in order for the anti-McKinley men to explain how it happened.

The Democrats may be trusted to do the wrong thing.

The Teller Bolt.

For the greatest event of the convention, greater even than the nomination of McKinley, which was practically decided many days ago, was the firm dignified, manly and earnest protest of the silver men and their withdrawal from the convention headed by Senator M. Teller of Colorado. It took grit to do this. It was not a trick of the politicians, nor was it any part of a diplomatic scheme. It was straight from the heart of honest men. It was a protest against the action of those who refused to hear the voice of the people in the platform. It commanded the respect of the convention and the country. Hundreds of cool, deliberate, or disinterested southern and western men, on the floor of the Associated Press, put down in telegrams reflecting this respect and the widespread deep effect of the bolt. [illegible] country and a betrayal of trust was deliberately committed which must absolve every honest believer in the joint use of silver and gold as money of ultimate redemption from further allegiance to the party.—Denver Republican.

Manitou Season Opened.

Manitou is formally opened for the season of 1896. The Colorado Springs Gazette on the Saturday printed cuts of all the prominent hostelries and points of interest in that greatest of all American summer resorts. This season will probably prove the most prosperous one Manitou has ever enjoyed.—(Cripple Creek Times.

As Bad as Could Be.

I have heard some pretty good stories told of deceased [illegible] but this one is unique. A show was given in Australia recently, and the next day the manager received this odd note: "My dear sir, Your performance last night was so bad that several of the gods have written demanding that the [illegible] be removed from the free list.—(Coolidge Echoes.

An Injunction Needed.

A man recently brought three different men to see his wife, who upon he went to lawyer.

Wants Pay for His Sheep.

C. B. Brown on Parachute appeals to the citizens of Colorado to partially reimburse him for losses sustained during the sheep troubles of nearly two years ago.

Mr. Brown makes his appeal public through the New Castle News. He begins the narration thus, but in the following extract he addresses the reader public:

On the 4th day of September last a dog shot my herder, Carl Brown, the herder's companion, man of 22 and who from his work will be a cripple for life. Then drove my sheep into the corral and destroyed the whole herd by the most cruel and inhuman means that their wicked ingenuity could invent and the limited time for action would allow.

My wife and I buried my herder for three months caring for him as she could and then sent him to the hospital at Denver, all his expenses to be there was $[illegible] besides having paid Dr. Haywood of Parachute $125 for his services.

To increase my embarrassment under these trying conditions there was a $[illegible] mortgage on the sheep. This claim I expect to pay just as soon as I can but, instead of further impoverishing my family, would it not be the only act of justice for the Cattle association of Colorado to pay that mortgage off? I would be willing to accept this and to compromise the matter for good. Such an amount might cost the Cattle association 25 cents per head for insurance cost sum, but it would pay the mortgage off and that would be all.

Mr. Brown closes his appeal in the following impassioned words:

I have been wronged, my wife has been wronged, and our children have been wronged. This dead black with crime and dripping with murder must be atoned for. My wife is broken down by hard work and this heavy loss. My children are left destitute on the world. My all swept away in a day. To an outsider this may seem comparatively trivial, but to me it is my life, my all.

No man who had a hand in this bloody work but that God has got him marked. No man dare do with that blood on his hands, that secret in his heart and that wrong unatoned. Every man of you that had a hand in that bloody work knows it; God knows it; and we will all know it one day. God only can blot out the sin of your inhumanity to those helpless dumb animals but you can pay me $120 to pay off that mortgage and let me again start square with the world.

The bloody day has passed, but the curse is full of a fourfold sale of carcasses. My earthly hopes, earnings and that of my hard-working wife have been swept away. Our children are left destitute but a just God sits on the throne of the universe and he will tear away those masks and expose those faces and judge between you and me.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of six certain executions issued on transcript from justice court issued out of the clerk's office of the district court of El Paso county, State of Colorado, and to me directed, whereby I am commanded to make the sum of six hundred and twelve [illegible] and costs of suit the amount [illegible] recently obtained against Norman C. CASINO OPENS ON SATURDAY.

New York Symphony Orchestra Will Be the Attraction.

JAN KOERTS THE LEADER.

He was Lately Concert Master with Walter Damrosch—All the Orchestra Selected from that Notable Musical Organization.

The Casino will open our week from tomorrow June 20. [illegible] people came up [illegible] last few days and the season is decided that they would be [illegible]

For some time [illegible] Yesterday he was notified that he would be needed. This year we are to have the New York symphony [illegible] for the leadership of Jan Koerts. There will be ten places in the orchestra and every member is a soloist. It has been selected from the membership of Walter Damrosch's New York orchestra. Mr. Koerts has been for the past three years concert master for Damrosch and previous to that he was for some years with Lamoureux of Paris. He comes with the highest recommendations and the Casino management believe that this will be the best orchestra that has ever played at the resort. They will be here in time for the opening next Saturday night.

The Casino management is preparing to make this the most popular season the Casino has ever had. Each year it has grown in popularity, and with the increased population and large crowds that are expected this year they have reason to believe that the patronage will be equally large. They are arranging special privileges this year for the ticket-holders. There will be the usual Thursday night dance for subscribers and other privileges will be accorded them. A season without the Casino would indeed be a failure and it is a matter for congratulation that it is to be opened.

A SUMMER SCHOOL COURSE.

Appreciative Testimonial of the Ability of Mrs. Strickland.

Mrs Strickland, who is to give a course of lectures on Parliamentary Law before the Summer School has received the following appreciative testimonial to the practical value of her classes and to her own commanding ability as a teacher. In these days of [illegible] conventions and women's clubs, and meetings of all sorts where rules of order must be applied such a course as this is most timely. The course was described in detail in The Gazette some time ago and a special circular announcing it has now been issued and may be had on application to the director. The letter is as follows:

Denver, Colo., April 29, 1896.

Dear Mrs. Strickland: While some of the members of your recent classes have had the opportunity of expressing to you personally their great appreciation of your service to them as teacher, it is our unanimous desire to convey in a more permanent form our sense of indebtedness to you.

We feel that we have had training which fits us for increased usefulness and enjoyment in our clubs, and that it has also been a new source of general culture. Some of us began the work without enthusiasm, but at its close cannot speak too strongly in its praise.

Your natural gifts as a teacher, together with the constant and effective illustration of grace and ability in speaking and presiding have been of inestimable benefit in demonstrating the principles which you have laid down. And by reason of your thorough legal training you are peculiarly fitted to present the principles of law upon which all associative effort depends. While you have insisted upon the absolute equality of the members of the body and that we should not slavishly defer to each other, you have yet shown us where and how to extend a delicate courtesy both as members and presiding officer.

We take great pleasure in recommending your work to all women and men engaged in deliberative proceedings of whatever character. Yours sincerely,

THE J. O. U. A. M. VISITORS.

Many of the Delegates will Be in the City Some Days.

The Junior Order United American Mechanics has closed its convention in Denver and the next few days will be spent [illegible] in the State. In the next two or three days most of them will come to this vicinity and will be entertained by the members of Duquesne Council of this city. There are five or six hundred delegates and as many more visitors. The following sketch of the order will be found of interest to many:

The Order of United American Mechanics was organized in Philadelphia, Pa., on the 17th day of July, 1853. Its object was for the purpose of protecting American labor against foreign importers and none but operative American mechanics were admitted to its membership.

The Junior Order United American Mechanics were organized from Reliance Council No. 40 of the O. A. U. M., on the [illegible] day of May, 1853. The civil war almost obliterated the order, and when peace smiled the scattered forces were gathered together, and their efforts were successful as follows.

The national council was organized on the 9th day of September, 1885, and has since that time advanced until the order is now established in forty-one States of the Union, with thirty-six State councils having in all a membership of about [illegible]. It is just about three years ago that the order was started in Colorado. A State council and thirty councils have been firmly established throughout the State.

This is an order for all Americans under the age of [illegible] years, beneficiary membership. There is a weekly sick benefit and most councils pay $10 life insurance, and all at an expense not exceeding 20 cents per week.

The organization is not confined to operative mechanics, as any person, irre-

DISTRICT COURT.

Two Bicycle Thieves Receive Their Sentences.

In the first division of the district court yesterday there were [illegible] thieves. One was a boy named Hoag, charged with stealing a bicycle belonging to Mr. Cockrell, of the Antlers. The other was a man by the name of Smith, who was charged with stealing a bicycle belonging to Mr. Ward, of the American Pub. Co. [illegible]

DIED ON THE STREETS.

Potter Hart of Chicago Expired Suddenly Yesterday.

About [illegible] yesterday afternoon a man named Potter Hart died on the corner of Pike's Peak avenue and Tejon street. He was in Hexenway's store when he fell to the floor and died. Mr. Hart was a man about 60 years of age and quite heavy. He has been a frequent visitor to Colorado for years on account of health and business. He always stopped at the Alamo hotel. He keeps a hotel in Chicago where his wife now resides. Lately he has been engaged in putting up a building in the town of Colorado, near the market. So far as his health would permit he was quite active. [illegible]

The coroner was called to Parker's undertaking rooms and will have a post mortem. The coroner did not deem it necessary to hold an inquest.

Young Boy Hurt.

Mr. J. M. Marsh's boy, an old man Walker had a very narrow escape from serious accident yesterday morning. The lad was riding his wheel north on Weber between Kiowa and Bijou streets when he was run down by a gray horse and a single rig. The Marsh boy was thrown under the horse's feet and the right wheel passed over him, but fortunately he received only a severe cut on the left side of the face near the eye. The boy in the wagon was on the wrong side of the street, and never looked back to see what damage he had done. Walker was taken home and later Dr. Gardner dressed the wound.

THE SILVER-BOLT.

Discussion of the Situation by the Associates of Mr. Teller—Messages from Constituents.

St Louis, June 19.—There was very little that could be learned yesterday regarding the plans or intentions of the silver leaders.

Outside the convention hall quite an ovation was given Mr. Teller. Bareheaded he walked arm in arm with several of his associates to the pavement, where carriages were in waiting. It was evident that the walk out had been arranged for the carriages at once drove to the curb and carried off the party.

When asked if he cared to say anything, Mr Teller replied that he had said all that was necessary, when he expressed his sentiments and bade the party with which he had been associated for a lifetime a long adieu. "I may, however," he continued, "say that Mr. Thurston's statement that the Republican party tried fearlessly to do its duty is hardly correct. The party does fear this declaration and the facts are all against them."

In the party that went out of the hall there were Senators Teller, Dubois, Cannon and Pettigrew and Congressman Hartman of Montana and Allen of Utah. Congressman Towne of Minnesota, who was present, also accompanied them to their hotel. Senator Teller, who was well nigh prostrated by the nervous strain, was hurried to a private room in one of the hotels where he could not be molested in order to enjoy needed rest and quiet. The remainder of the party were driven at once to the St. Nicholas, where the stirring events of the afternoon were discussed.

Senator Pettigrew of South Dakota, discussing the situation said:

"I consider the question of financial necessity the only vital issue in the campaign. I felt bound to throw the weight of my influence and efforts on the side of the producers of wealth rather than on the side of those who are the manipulators of the golden word. The single gold standard only means lower prices, greater distress and a further concentration of the entire property of the world in the hands of the owners of credit. I believe that reciprocity, protection and silver are absolutely essential to each other and I can see no sense or reason in authorizing a war against whom we wage a fratricidal warfare. The gold using nations of the world are the creditors, the producers of the things we produce. And if we build a tariff wall against them the issue of protection, however, is no longer one of principle but simply a question of rates of duty, for the Wilson bill is a great tariff measure with rates of duty slightly below those imposed by the McKinley act and while I am still earnestly in favor of the protective tariff and shall vote to perpetuate it on any occasion, still my action today does not prevent me from voting for an increase of either advalorem or specific duties.

"The delegation from my State was not instructed on the financial question. We were instructed only for McKinley. The convention decided that whereas there was a difference of opinion among the Republicans of our State on the financial question it would make no deliverance on that subject until after the national convention, thereby leaving me absolutely [illegible] ment. I did not feel after a plank had been adopted which I could not support either in the campaign or at the polls—[illegible] before the American people that I could remain and participate thereafter in this convention. These are my reasons for joining Mr. Teller today."

Congressman Charles Towne of Minnesota spoke very bitterly of the action of the convention. "I was a Republican," he said, "a few hours ago, but I have not changed my opinion. If I have not, somebody else in the convention that today declared for gold. I believe I am modest when I say that a majority of the people are against the adoption of the gold standard and I believe a very large percentage of the Republican voters of the country will repudiate the platform adopted by their convention in St. Louis."

Congressman Hartman of Montana made the positive declaration that not one of the western States could be carried for McKinley on the platform proposed for it, and he believes that California, Oregon and Washington will all go hand in hand with the silver producing States that lie immediately east of the Pacific coast. A sample of the messages being received by Mr. Hartman from ex State Senator W. F. Thompson, a Republican leader in one of the largest wool growing counties in that State, Mr Thompson says:

"We are with you. No straddles, walk out and nominate Teller and protection."

"All I care to say," remarked Senator Dubois of Idaho, "is that a very dignified statement was being made that neither the Republican nor any other party could coerce the consciences of men, and Mr. Thurston will find in a very dramatic manner that the voters in November next would know whether they

The hidden treasure in the old Trail group on the saddle between Bull and Battle mountains has at last been revealed. S. M. Perry is the last man to take a lease and bond on the property. He has worked almost despairingly for some time. On Thursday found what has likely closed his [illegible] gold showing a handsomely in the ore that it would excite the imagination of a Croesus. The shaft has been sunk to a depth of [illegible] feet and extensive drifts have been run. The ore was encountered in one of these drifts. The property is owned by the Aspen Golden Gold Mining company and is one of the oldest locations in the camp. It has been worked for several years with very indifferent success. There seems to be no doubt that Mr. Perry has opened one of the biggest veins of the year.

There are seven sets of lessees actively at work on as many different lots on the school section which lies immediately north of Bull hill and east of Grassy station. Some shafts have been sunk ranging from [illegible] to 60 feet in depth. Veins have been exposed in some instances and in others the work is done on the contact between the phonolite and dacite. While many of the miners at work on the section are feeling encouraged with the showing they have, none of them are yet paying the State any royalties on the ore they find.

The lessee of the Lady Stifle on Gold hill has given an option for his year's lease for $[illegible], and the holders of the option are taking it out from the recent strike to determine its value. If it justifies the reports made the option will be taken up.

Mines, Stocks, Investments

Colorado Springs Mining Stock Association.

Colorado Springs, June 19.—The demand for mining stock here at the Exchange this morning showed a very decided falling off. Holders seemed to be more anxious to let go of their holding and were willing to supply any quantity even at a decline. The state of affairs took by some opened to the buyers, who took advantage of the fact and managed to fill their orders at slightly lower prices than those which ruled at yesterday's sale. The decline which is recorded in many of the stocks took place after the opening quotations had been made, but in a few cases small improvements in one or two cases were the rule rather than the exception. The feature of the morning was Isabella, Stamped Isabella, Union, Work, Cripple Creek Consolidated and Alamo in the listed department, and Golden Age, Rico and Aspen in the unlisted stocks. In fact upon the first sales transactions were made. Numerous offers at this point resulted in the price dropping to 65c and then rallying the latter figure ruling for more than half of the total sales of 2,000 shares. Stamped Isabella sympathized with its sister claim at 64, but later dropping to 63 and then going to 64 at the close with transfers of 500 shares. Union was firm for a while at the opening the first block selling at 7, but inclined to weakness under heavy selling and closed off to 6, with sales of 2,000 shares. Work remained unchanged with sales of 700 at 12½ and plenty more offered at that figure. Alamo displayed strength on big selling opening at 5¼ and closing at 4¾. In the unlisted shares Arcadia was down fractionally to 7¾ and 7½. Golden Age was in good demand at from 1¾ at the opening to 1¾ at the close. Other changes were unimportant. The market closed a trifle weak.

REPORTS DENIED.

Portland and Independence Not to be Consolidated as Reported.

The recent visit of Hamilton Smith, the well known English mining expert to Cripple Creek in company with Messrs Stratton, Pierson and Peck of the Portland company is said to have given the various Cripple Creek correspondents of the Denver newspapers a fresh impetus for opportunity of judging from the various reports that appeared in the newspapers, to do a little Munchausen work. Hamilton Smith's visit to this city, we find to have been the occasion of a holiday for both the Independence and Portland mines and several options on the balance of the camp. Some had it that the Independence and Portland were to be consolidated into a mammoth company organized which would be controlled by foreign capital, others that other and surveys were going the amount of one million dollars. All these reports have been denied by Mr. Stratton, owner of the Independence. Mr. Stratton says that there is no sale of any kind pending and that the visit to camp with Mr. Smith was simply one of pleasure and courtesy.

MINING AT DIVIDE.

Various Claims are Being Developed in This Section.

A large number of prospectors are at work in the neighborhood of Divide and the new settlement of Summit park on the Midland railroad. Some 100 to 200 are residing mail at the former village.

Near Divide on the Travis homestead G. F. Costigan and McDonald of Denver are sinking a shaft now down 80 feet, at the summit of the Four-Mile creek. The shaft is well timbered and five men are kept steadily employed. The vein through which they are sinking is reported to return values of $12. A property dike is in close proximity, towards which they intend drift. At a depth of 100 feet has been reached.

D. W. Smith has two shafts down 75 feet and 40 feet respectively south of Divide near Four-Mile creek. A mill run on 200 pounds returned $27. Patents have been applied for.

Jesse Harris has located and is developing a bunch of claims two miles southeast.

W. Worley has a force of men completing assessments on four claims which make good showing northeast Bull creek.

Near the newly laid out town of Summit Park a number of men are working on the west side of the park and toward Raspberry mountain. The country is of a granite formation, interspersed with large porphyry dykes. The new settlement has already a hotel, blacksmith shop, grocery and feed stores and other buildings. Application has been made to Washington for a postoffice, as some 200 men are making the village their headquarters. The nearest office at present is Divide, four miles distant.

Warren and J. Loomis of Colorado Springs are sinking a shaft about a mile southeast of town, near a blowout of granite and quartz. The shaft is down 20 feet, and has a four-foot vein between solid walls. Fourteen inches of this is claimed to be pay ore.

Contractor Bugler, one mile west of town, has sunk the Wheeler claim to a depth of 55 feet, and will complete 100 feet. A mill run recently made from $47.

H. S. Hickox has taken a contract to drive a tunnel for Colonel Comstock and J. Ansfield of Woodland Park on a property east of the settlement. A shaft on this property is down 32 feet and free gold has been discovered in small pockets.

Ten acres of the Hickox ranch were recently sold to I. R. Miller of Aspen for mining purposes, at a price of $40 per acre.

I. O. O. F.

The I. O. O. F. which possesses the distinction of being the first shipper from Prospect hill, is still being worked by the owner Mr. Miller. About 75 feet down the shaft passed through a vein in talc and decayed porphyry from which free gold can be panned in considerable quantities. Mr. Miller continued to sink the shaft for 15 feet, but not being satisfied with the showing he returned to the talc and took out enough to show that he had a large quantity of the ore. The stuff pans gold in good quantities and it looks as if a good mine was about to be opened up. At present he is handicapped by lack of capital to drift into the ore body. So far, the I. O. O. F. has the best showing of any mine on Prospect hill, and money will no doubt be forthcoming to develop it when the mining public recognizes its value.

Pot Gulch.

J. L. Allen, superintendent of the Pot Gulch Mining company, was down from Cripple yesterday and reports a great deal of activity on the south slope of Strauss mount in the vicinity of the Pot Gulch. Mr. Allen says they have a vein of ore but would not say what it assayed. His purpose here yesterday was to perfect arrangements to have the company's claims patented in a few days.

Gold Coin.

The Gold Coin lode, under the town of Victor, is rapidly coming to the front as one of the big things of that part of the camp. When reports of a strike in the new or third vein have been circulated the drift which was being run along the vein to the south from the main working shaft. The main drift has been driven north of this shaft and has been carried forward for quite a long distance. Some of the ore taken out in the cross cut has been found to be quite rich, and a few days ago a sample taken from the vein showed [illegible] gold. The vein is now [illegible] from $2 where [illegible] taken and [illegible] showed [illegible] gold. The [illegible] This new ore shoot will soon be reached by the level which is being run from the bottom of the shaft. [illegible] work in the shaft. Colorado Springs Board of Trade and Mining Exchange

Colorado Springs, June 19.—The feeling of weakness which has been creeping over the market yesterday was more apparent throughout the entire proceedings of the Board this morning. There was a very perceptible falling off in the demand for stocks, and the buyers were a decided majority on the floor. The favorites were more or less neglected and when sold brought lower prices. Isabella was off and lower but held up well while Stamped Isabella sold at only fractions of a cent lower figures. Union was down fractionally with transfers of 500 shares. Plummers seemed to be the only stock in the mining list that showed any strength, a few shares of it selling at about 9 cents. In the prospective mine department the volume of business was unusually small, a total of 2,000 shares changing ownership. Arcadia and Alamo each sold 500 shares at slightly lower figures. Squaw Mountain Tunnel sold from 2½ to 2¾ for 500. In the prospects Columbia, Golden Treasure, Solid Gold and Red Bird were the only sellers, but recorded no particular change in price. In the miscellaneous department, N. Y. & C. C., Pauline and Josephine were fairly good sellers. The market closed weak.

The Carrington lease on the Sheriff made a rich strike a few days ago at a depth of 30 feet in a 12-foot vein running $40 to the ton. Although shipments have been made from the lease this is the best strike yet made. The vein is north and south and trend of the vein is north and south and runs the full length of the property.

The New York tunnel which is being driven by the Middle Bath Tunnel company, in a westerly direction under Bath mountain, bearing in Arequa gulch, has progressed 50 feet in its course. The tunnel was started as a double track but has been narrowed down some in the last work done. It is the purpose to enlarge the bore to a double track its entire length and put on an air compressor plant for driving tunnel ahead.

A good body of rich ore has been struck on a portion of the Longfellow on Bull hill, which is supposed to be a man named McKenzie. The original lease is held by Clemmons and others. A carload of this ore has been sent out. A chute was entered in a drift 32 feet from the shaft at a depth of 75 feet. A sample of the ore ran $244 per ton, and picked specimens run into the thousands.

At 105 feet in the Horn of Plenty, on Prospect hill, in which vein in decomposed porphyry has been discovered coming onto the foot wall between the old vein and the wall in granite quartz which has been followed from the surface. The new rock is impregnated with iron and looks well but no assays have yet been made. The air in the shaft is bad, and a bellows is being used to enable the miners to work.

The Climax is again working, the owners having started up the property recently with three shifts of men. The shaft is down 100 feet and when a depth of 150 has been reached the vein will be drifted upon. At the same time the dump is being sorted and screened and a big amount of ore obtained that runs from $20 to $60 per ton. The Santa Rita, in adjoining property, will be started up in a few days by W. R. Phelps.

Gus Hansborough arrived in Cripple Creek Wednesday from High park where he reports good progress in the properties in which he is interested. A 50-foot shaft has just been completed on the Genevieve group. A vein has been opened five feet in width and assays across the vein give return of $15 per ton. G. W. Lowles of Indiana, who is largely interested in the Genevieve and other properties in the High Park district, will arrive in a few days, when other plans for development work will be set in motion.

The Florence Tracy tunnel has reached a distance of 350 feet into Bull hill from the west slope, and the contract has been let which will carry it on 400 feet further. Six veins have already been cut in the breast of the tunnel, ranging up to 10 feet in formation. At 265 feet from the mouth a crosscut was run to find what was found that the tunnel had been driven along the side of a strong vein which contains some ore of a pay grade. The size of the tunnel is 6x8 in the clear.

Col. Clarke Aldrich left for Aspen Thursday night to be gone a few days.

A carriage load of scenery enthusiasts from the Cliff took a carriage yesterday afternoon and went to the summer resorts favorite places of interest.

Dr. A. H. Wallace, a well known physician of San Francisco, arrived at the Barker yesterday and will remain in Manitou for a limited space of time.

Mr. L. H. Cleveland, traveling representative for the Rio Grande Western, was in the city yesterday. He is advertising a $20 round trip rate to Salt Lake.

The orchestra at the Cliff is furnishing a regular programme concert every evening, and is rapidly becoming one of the most popular of Manitou's musical organizations.

Mr. E. T. Lewis and three children have come to Manitou seeking pleasure and fresh air. They will spend a part of the summer at Captain Rogers' pretty little hotel, the Sunny Side.

Some twenty of the members of the J. C. F. A. M. have been spending a few days at the Iron Springs hotel. Some left for their homes last night while others will remain over to-day.

Mr. P. Thorn after an absence of a number of months has returned to Manitou and will be located at the Barker. For a number of years Mr. Thorn has made Manitou his summer resort and says he finds no other place in the country that he likes as well.

Contributions in the way of money and books are coming in very fast and the reading room of the new free library which has recently been organized will soon be well filled. The reading room will be in charge of a board of twelve directors who will see to it that it is conducted in the best manner to further its interests.

Noticeable improvements have just been completed on the Soda Springs pavilion. The roof over the spring has been extended some feet north giving more room for the large crowds that daily throng this favorite resort. A number of other additions for the comfort of travelers have been added. There is talk of securing a fine orchestra to furnish music afternoon and evenings during the summer months.

There are a great many people in Manitou as in other places, who think they know all there is to know about riding a horse and will even go so far as to offer advice, when if the truth were known they never put their foot in a stirrup until they reached the balmy breezes of Manitou. One of these young persons, best not mention the name, attempted to ride a rather [illegible] horse this day. The horse was led up to the hotel steps and with the manner of one who had spent most of their life on the horse she jumped into the saddle. She had no sooner touched the seat than away went the horse and much to her surprise she could not find the reins. She had neglected to throw them over the head of the horse before she got into the saddle. After the animal had run a few blocks he swerved to the right and the young lady, sought the arms of mother earth. Luckily, however, she was only slightly scratched and no bones broken. Since this little affair she has not appeared on horseback and it will likely be some months before she will again be able to grow up enough courage to attempt to ride it all records up the main street.

THOUGHT THE DOMINIE A DRUMMER.

And So He Couldn't Buy a Baby Carriage Till the Boss Came In.

In some of the villages down on Long Island strangers particularly fine looking ones, are sometimes mistaken for drummers. A certain clergyman who had been called to a church in Sayville started out soon after arriving at his new charge to make some purchases. He naturally stopped at the first important store in the village, where one of the gentlemanly clerks asked him if he could serve him in any way. The stranger asked "Do you sell baby carriages here?" As this particular clerk did not care to assume the responsibility of ordering any goods in this line from a strange drummer he remarked to the stranger, "The boss is not in, but will return later."

The stranger waited. In a few minutes another clerk, espying him also offered to serve him, when it was again decided that the boss was the proper one to see and as the matter thus stood when the stranger thought he would walk back to his stopping place and await the boss' appearance at the store.

The good Methodist brother with whom the new minister was staying, upon hearing him relate his experience at the store, went up to ascertain why the Rev. Mr. Lepler could not buy a baby carriage without the presence of the boss. "My!" exclaimed a half dozen clerks. "Was that the new Methodist minister? He is handsome enough and smart looking enough to pass for a drummer. Kindly make haste and get our apologies in."—Furniture Trade Review.

The Strong Jaw In Some Men.

Among all old world apes the teeth are the chief weapons for defense against natural foes and for combats for mate or tribal supremacy. The canines are in most cases enormously developed, insomuch that ill informed naturalists have suggested that a near relationship must exist between the primates and the carnivora. As a matter of fact these formidable teeth have nothing to do with alimentation, but are as purely weapons of war as are the bayonet and the maxim gun. In practically every emergency demanding unusual energy, obstinacy and courage they come into play.

In every conflict with the world, the flesh and the devil—as such things are understood in primitive old society—the temporal and masseter muscles are the chief arbiters of war. To become a great and powerful anthropoid it is absolutely and brutally necessary to have a large and strong jaw to give firm attachment to the teeth and good leverage to the muscles. That for an immense epoch our prehuman ancestors achieved success in life in like manner is as clear as the print of Mars to those who have learned to read nature's hand writing.

Since those days of our arcadian simplicity our life has become bewilderingly complex, and our methods for settling social difficulties have changed generally for the better. But here, as in so many other instances, the habits of a past age have left an indelible impress on the nervous system.—Blackwood's Magazine.

The Unattainable.

"Talk about the misery of unattainable aspirations," mused the fat lady who had something of a penchant for philosophy. "You weren't here, I guess, when the four legged girl first got the bicycle craze."

"No, the india rubber man had not been there at the time mentioned."

"However, he laughed hoarsely.—Detroit Tribune.

The Rev. Leo Lewis Thomas, who is to leave soon for an eastern pastorate will give a farewell talk to young men Sunday afternoon at 4 P. M. in the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Thomas is a strong speaker and will like to see the young men. He will no doubt be greeted by a large attendance.

He was frightfully wounded in the head, and it is thought cannot recover. He is now at the county hospital. His name could not be learned.

The St. Louis Post Dispatch on Sunday got out a big special edition. One page was devoted to Colorado Springs and was decidedly the most creditable that has appeared in a metropolitan newspaper regarding this city for some time. It was not an advertisement nor did it have the look of one. The article was accompanied by a picture of Pike's Peak avenue and there were cuts of J. J. Hagerman and R. J. Rollins.

The coaches formerly drawn by horses, returned yesterday from their trip through the mining camps. They visited the Cripple Creek, Gillett and West Creek districts and found the roads in excellent condition. The fare of $10 to make a change to stages from Cripple Creek to Anchor City. Police Court.

A small amount of business characterized the doings in the police court yesterday morning there being a less number of cases brought before Judge Bell than for some days past.

One case of disturbance was tried and dismissed with the usual trimmings. One poor, little drunk was called to pay the usual fine of $5 for his spiritual uplift. One case of vagrancy was heard and dismissed, the defendant being given a chance to leave the city in a limited space of time, the fine was remitted. Patrick Horan, the man arrested for the other vagrancy case, was brought before the magistrate and fined $10 and costs.

SENATOR TELLER'S PROTEST.

Senator Teller has carried out his announced determination not to let from the Republican convention if the 16 to 1 platform were adopted an address to his constituents giving the reasons which have led him to this determination. View it from Senator Teller's standpoint and that of those who share his views, there is nothing else that he could do, and his published protest will be applauded as a complete justification for his action.

We are glad that the senior Senator from this State has accomplished a difficult task in a way to bring him strong manifestation of respect and sympathy from his party associates. No one can read the story of the St. Louis convention without feeling that such a course as Senator Teller is not a crank, is not a weak-minded theorist, is not a fanatical lunatic, and he is not regarded as such by the leaders of the party with which he has been associated and to which he has rendered good service. Few men indeed could have taken the stand that Senator Teller has done while preserving so much of the esteem and the high consideration of his associates.

Nevertheless something remains to be seen. His course is not the best for the United States; not the best for Colorado; not the best for Colorado silver. Many of his constituents will follow his lead, perhaps a majority of them, but they will not all of them do so. Each one of the Republicans of Colorado will ask for himself the same questions which Senator Teller has doubtless considered. There are other things in the platform besides the financial plank. There is the Democratic record of unprecedented depth of dishonor and disaster. There is the question of protection, the backbone of American industrial independence, and Reciprocity, the other blade of the twin measure of Republican policy. There are the interests involved in the withdrawal of the protection to Colorado wool-growers, and the bounty to Colorado beet sugar producers. There is the matter of the full recognition of old claims growing in the results of the great civil war, and the adequate care of its deserving survivors. There is the maintenance of a firm, dignified, honorable and consistent foreign policy, such as characterized the conduct of affairs by the Republican administrations in former years instead of the vacillating policy, by turns indifferent to the rights of Americans and truculent to friendly powers. There is the protection of the American workman and the American race by the enaction of such restrictive laws as will not allow the introduction of hordes of foreigners who have neither the desire nor the ability to become Americans in spirit.

And finally, if it is decided that all these and other considerations, as compared with the one presented by the question of the Democratic party with its record of failure in every thing it has undertaken, can be overcome by the power to persuade voters that for once and for all the Republican party is the party of the people, the party of the home, the party of the American workingman, the party of the American farmer, the party of the American manufacturer, the party of the American merchant, the party of the American soldier, the party of the American citizen, the party of the American home, the party of the American flag, the party of the American Congress, the party of the American President, the party of the American people, the party of the American future, the party of the American past, the party of the American present, the party of the American everywhere, the party of the American everywhere, the party of the American everywhere

Colorado Springs Mining Stock Association.

Colorado Springs, June 18. The opening moment of the market at the Exchange this morning were quite dull and listless. The Colorado opened easier to [illegible] and delayed trading [illegible] which caused stocks to be [illegible] It is only now that the stock is [illegible] few days should [illegible] tion which was [illegible] call stocks [illegible] while [illegible] remained firm. Later on more life was injected into the proceedings and some very heavy trading was done principally in Work [illegible] Alamo, Cripple Creek and Pharmacist.

Work opened lower at 12¼, and was sold freely at this figure for a time when the constant absorption of all offerings set the price to 12¾. From this the stock fluctuated between 12½ and 12¾, closing at the latter figure with sales of 22,000 shares. Isabella was down 1¼ for the first sale at 65, but immediately jumped to 65½ and later to 66¼ and 66½. Toward the close it was freely offered at 65, at which figure it closed with transfers of 25,000 shares. Union opened at yesterday's figures and sold up as high as 2½ during the call and 2¾ at the close. Pharmacist remained about the same, while Alamo gained ½ during the call, closing at 1½ with transactions of 1,000 shares. Elkton still continues its upward climb, selling at 29½ for the concluding deal. Mt Rosa was a good seller, as was also Creede and Cripple Creek. Mollie Gibson suffered a drop of 2 points, selling at 74 at the close.

In the unlisted department, Colorado City and Manitou, Reno, Squaw Mountain Tunnel and Sacramento were good traders at about the same figures which ruled yesterday. The market closed firm.

A Good Option.

The Optic Mining and Milling company has entered a short option to a well known Victor capitalist on their property on Quartz hill, just above the western slope of Bull mountain. The option runs one month, if taken up calls for the payment of $1,000 each. The parties who secure this option wished sufficient time to have a thorough examination of the property made and submitted.

Work on the Dead Pine claim is still going on rapidly, and the lessees are convinced that within a short time they will be paying out in good and sufficient quantities. Rich assays have always been obtained from this property, but unfortunately the right ore body has not yet been uncovered. The shaft is over [illegible] deep and [illegible] is being run in the hope that the Portland vein can be cut.

Smith Saw the Portland.

Hampton Smith, the famous English mining engineer, went to Cripple Creek on Wednesday in company with W. S. Stratton, James Pott, Frank Peck and other Portland stockholders. Wednesday afternoon the party spent in developing over the camp. Yesterday morning they put in in the Portland mine going through it very carefully. Mr Smith was through the mine last year, and made himself familiar with the new workings at that time. He was shown some ore that was rich enough to stagger even an old miner like him who has taken out his millions. Yesterday afternoon Mr Smith spent some time in the Independence and last evening all of the party returned to the city excepting Mr Stratton.

What Mr Smith's object is in making the visit to these mines has not transpired, but it is believed that he has come over here to acquaint himself better with the properties of the camp. Mr Smith leaves today for Denver, and in a short time will be arriving at home in England. He will go to South Africa. Since coming to this country he has formed a syndicate to develop the famous Anaconda group of mines in Montana.

FORMAL OPENING.

New Exchange Building Opened Yesterday—Caller Presented with a Gavel—The Association.

The formal opening of the new Exchange building of the Colorado Springs Mining Stock association was characterized by the management and administration of that institution ever since its organization. There was an absence of excitement, but in the least inclined to be boisterous. The opening was quiet and orderly, with the exception of the [illegible] by the members of a [illegible] presented to Caller "Joe" Hutchinson as a token of his popularity. [illegible] the removal [illegible] was [illegible] of the first call, there was [illegible] of the call, which was followed by [illegible] of [illegible]

Workmen were busy all Wednesday night putting on finishing touches and preparing the Exchange for the many visitors who began crowding in as early as 9 o'clock. By 10 A. M. the ladies gallery was completely filled with by downstairs corridor, hallway and open space outside of the pit rail was crowded with men.

On every side were heard expressions of surprise at the great change which the building had undergone and many were the congratulations that Secretary Davidson received as the result of his labors in securing such handsome quarters for the association. Good luck to the happy, especially the brokers, who, as Broker Wray put it, "have to get their bill of good Colorado ozone without interfering with the exercise of our rights."

Promptly at 10:45, Caller Hutchinson ascended the rostrum and dropped the gavel on the call the usual time for declaring the call open, and that the exchange was ready to begin business.

At this juncture, a very pleasant surprise happened Mr. Henry Russell Wray, who had been chosen to make the presentation speech, stepped to the front of the rostrum and interrupted the proceedings by addressing the caller as follows: "On behalf of the members of the Colorado Springs Mining Stock association and your officers in office I have the honor and privilege of presenting you with this token of your official position. For fear your modesty may not permit you to appreciate the full import of this little token, let me say on behalf of every member of this exchange, that it carries with it a volume of respect, owing to your absolutely fair treatment of each and all of us in transactions upon the floor and your absolutely unselfish and impartial decisions.

"If we the voice of all the members and express their earnest sentiment when I say, if you make half as good a gavel as you've made a caller, you will be in truth a 'Joe Daniels.'"

As Mr. Wray finished speaking, he handed the caller a fine carved mahogany gavel, the head of which was encircled by two wide silver bands and the end of the handle inclosed in exquisitely carved cupping.

Probably for the first time in his eventful career, Caller "Joe" Hutchinson was taken entirely by surprise, and it was some time before he was able to control his feelings sufficiently to respond to Mr. Wray's remarks. His words were well chosen and his short speech was freely punctuated with applause. In brief he said: Gentlemen: I am overwhelmed. I can express only my warm appreciation and heartfelt thanks. I accept this gavel, not only as individually from each one of you, but as said by your honored associate, Mr Wray, because it represents the dignity and authority of this exchange. I accept it with the determination that it shall not intentionally ever fall or decline unworthily. No one is perfect or infallible and while I have had the honor to preside over this honored body but seven short months, I have never in all my experience as a caller received complaint of unwarranted lack of recognition. I hope I never shall. I thank you one and all for your expressions of friendship and respect and I hope that I shall always merit your approval.

The daily call of the stock was then started and the usual routine of business gone through with.

The New Building.

The building which is now the home of the Colorado Mining Stock association, adjoins the El Paso County Bank and occupies a frontage on the south side of Pike's Peak avenue of 50 feet with a depth of 100 feet. It is two stories high and has an imposing appearance. In addition to extensive alterations, improvements and remodelling, a large and commodious annex has been erected immediately at the rear of the Exchange building proper. This annex was designed especially for pit-room purposes and as such has no superior in the Western country.

On the ground floor of the Exchange building proper, there are three large and handsome office rooms in addition to closets, etc. Two of these offices face Pike's Peak avenue and are separated by a wide corridor which leads from the street entrance to the pit-room. On the upper floor are six office rooms. These upper floor offices may be connected as suites if desired, and all communicate directly with the corridor. They are all neat, well painted and tinted. The upper floor is reached by a flight of easy stairs which have two landings.

The main entrance of the building on the ground floor opens into a large and [illegible] of silver-veined marble. This lobby is finely tinted walls. This lobby leads straight to the pit-room in the annex at the rear. The pit-room is 41 feet wide and 45 feet long and with a height of ceiling of 22 feet. The room is lighted from above with a large skylight which completely floods the room with light. In addition to this skylight there is a large full circle window in the rear which is covered by stained glass. Particular attention has been paid to the ventilation arrangement of the room, and the architect in charge has been unusually successful. The room is wainscoted in natural wood, is hig wainscoted to a height of four feet and has a hard maple floor. On the rear wall facing the entrance to the room is a large blackboard for the use of the market quotations. On either side of the room, two additional blackboards have been placed for the purpose of recording weekly sales notices, etc. In front of the main blackboard is a handsome oak clerk's stand, movable, and the pit itself is defined by a low railing with gates on either side. The fittings are of oak, and of an elaborate design.

On either side of the room have been placed eight handsome oak telephone booths, both for private and public use. On the outside of the pit two doors have been placed for the use of the pit.

There are offices as well as booths of both telegraph companies communicating directly with the pit-room and are of easy access to the members.

The office of Secretary Davidson is furnished with elaborate and heavy oak furniture and fitted with a large fire-proof vault.

The ladies gallery, which is reached by a passageway from the main stairway connecting the upper and lower floor, is built entirely across the north end of the pit-room and has a large seating capacity. A fine view of everything is afforded from the gallery, which is finished with ornamental carved posts and an elaborate iron railing of rare design. The ceiling under the gallery is panelled with beams and moldings.

The fixtures throughout are rustless iron excepting in the offices of the second story. The hardware of the main floor and pit-room is also of rustless iron—making a very pleasing combination with the colors of the wood finishing. Elsewhere the hardware is of polished brass.

The evening lighting of the room is by four fine chandeliers of 12 lights each with crow of 4 lights arranged in pits distributed around the room at the foot of the coved ceiling. In addition to these there are four wall lights beneath the ladies' gallery. All of the electric lights are controlled by switches from the main floor.

The sanitary arrangements of the building are complete. Toilet rooms have been connected with the main hall, two short flight of steps another for men opening from the main landing of the stairs and one for ladies connected with the corridor in the second story. The building is heated by steam from a boiler in the basement.

The building committee of the Exchange had had an eye to future and had foresight that it would be necessary to make extensive alterations at no distant date, and that was to secure a permanent building affording greater facilities and convenience for the speedy transaction of business. In this they have been eminently successful and deserve the warmest praise.

The revenue derived from rents of the offices in this building are sufficient to pay all expenses of running and maintaining the property, and the Colorado Springs Exchange is rent free, it being furnished free of cost. The building is equally as good for, at a time, as it does the city, has a very liberal lease of life in its territory.

The Association.

The Colorado Springs Mining Stock Association was organized in September, 1891, and held its first call on the 16th day of the same month. The history of the Exchange is too well known to need recapitulation at this time. The institution has met a great many obstacles since its inception and all of which it has successfully overcome. Through the wise and conservative management on the part of its officers the Exchange today occupies an enviable place among the financial institutions of the country and is justly given credit for being the leading mining exchange of the country. That nothing succeeds like success is a truism that cannot be disputed, and that the Colorado Springs Mining Stock Association has been and is a signal success no one no matter who has ever had the temerity to deny. If in the future it adopts and pursues the same conservative policy it has in the past the institution will live as long as there is mining in Colorado.

Business Up to Date.

During the existence of the association the following business has been transacted up to the 18th:

Total sales—unlisted stocks ..... 27,670,[illegible]

An average of twenty-eight stocks is traded in daily.

Colorado Springs Board of Trade and Mining Exchange

Colorado Springs, June 18.—There was a very noticeable falling off in the volume of trading at the Board this morning. Prices sympathized with the apparent lack of buying orders and receded fractionally along almost the entire list. The amount of stock put under the hammer was far greater than the demand, and that which found takers was forced at lower figures. No serious break, however, occurred and while quotations went lower there was no and current of firmness, which towards the close made the brokers more confident. The features in the mine list were Garfield Grouse, Isabella and Pharmacist. Isabella opened weak at 65¼ but sold up to 66¼ for the final block of 16 shares. In the prospective mines Squaw Mountain Tunnel had the distinction of being the heaviest trader with Arcadia second. The former opened at 3¼ but rallied strongly during the morning and sold at 3¾ at the close. Arcadia was forced the support it has been receiving and was allowed to drop from 3¼ at the opening to 2¾ at the close with sales of 3000. Pharmacist was in better demand at 9¾ and, in spite of heavy channel bonds, Colorado City and Mollie Gibson Pick Pot and Sacramento were also traded in. The trading in the prospects and miscellaneous was unimportant. The market closed easy.

PHARMACIST'S NEW SHAFT.

Has Reached a Depth of 40 feet—Company Getting Rich Ore.

The [illegible] company at shaft of the Pharmacist property which is being sunk to catch the [illegible] parallel vein has already [illegible] a depth of 40 feet at which point it is [illegible] the vein has been encountered. A large amount of vein matter has been encountered, much of which shows up free gold. The new machinery which was purchased some time ago was shipped from Denver on the 17th inst., and is expected to be at Cripple Creek today. Its cost was $2,200 and it is guaranteed to work to a depth of 1000 feet. On its arrival it will be placed over the old shaft and the hoisting of ore from the bottom of this shaft will begin immediately.

The company is now in three feet of ore at the bottom of the 40-foot winze which is being sunk in one of the drifts on the parallel vein. The walls are well defined and the ore is very rich, showing up free gold in great abundance. This winze followed the vein on a dip to determine the richness and extent of the vein. The new shaft which is being sunk however, will be vertical and after it reaches sufficient depth crosscuts to the vein will be run. Assays obtained on ore matter from this winze on the 15th ran $22.40, and the screenings $132 gold per ton. The June development of 17 tons, mostly high-grade ore running 11 ounces gold per ton. The mine is improving every day, and when the new machinery is in good working order the company expects to make further inroads on the indebtedness which is now standing against the company.

President Estes of the Exchange was suddenly called to Lake City Wednesday night. Mr Estes expressed his regret at not being able to be present at the formal opening of the new Exchange building yesterday morning.

If it requires an annual outlay of $100 to insure a family against any serious consequences from an attack of bowel complaint during the year there are many who would feel it their duty to pay it, that they could not afford to risk their lives, and those of their family for such an amount. Any one can get this insurance for 25 cents, that being the price of a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. In almost every neighborhood some one has died from an attack of bowel complaint before medicine could be procured or a physician summoned. One or two doses of this remedy will cure any ordinary case. It never fails. Can you afford to take the risk for so small an amount?

MANITOU DEPARTMENT.

THE CLIFF'S FIRST HOP.

Enjoyed by Guests From All Manitou's Hotels.

CITY FATHERS TALK IT OVER.

And Decide Regarding Hotel Solicitors—Arrivals at the Hotels to Date—Daily Journal Makes Its Appearance—Other Items.

The first hop of the season occurred at the Cliff house last evening and as is the usual case with all of the dances given by this popular resort was without exception a brilliant success.

A number of guests from the other hotels were present and enjoyed the festivities to the fullest extent. The spacious dining room had been cleared of all furniture and with the doors between it and the front parlor opened made a splendid place for dancing. The dance started at 9 and it was well on to 1 when the last waltz was completed. Both the parlor and dining room were decorated very tastily with roses and other flowers which combined with the faces of so many pretty girls, made a very pretty sight. The new orchestra, which is becoming so popular, furnished the music. The sun parlor on the west of the hotel seemed to become a very favorite resort and between each dance it was well filled with couples. The faces of a number of Colorado Springs society belles were welcomed among those present.

H. Maurer, a Chicago gentleman, is spending a few days at the Manitou house.

Chas J. Fahndrick has arrived in Manitou and will spend a few weeks at the Manitou house.

Mr. A. J. Dayton and Mr. J. F. Zins of Minneapolis, are spending a few days at the Barker.

Alex Hater, a wealthy mine owner of Chicago is spending a few weeks at the Iron Springs hotel.

Captain W. H. Rogers, proprietor of the Sunny Side, spent the day in Denver yesterday on business.

W. B. Harris of New York arrived at the Manitou house yesterday and will spend a few weeks in the city.

Dr. A. E. Guinns has returned from his trip to Chicago and will spend the rest of the summer months at the Cliff.

Mr. A. J. Alexander, a prominent banker of Trinidad is spending a few days at the Barker, resting from his labors.

Miss E. R. Phelps and J. B. Phelps are spending a few days at the Barker. The Phelps are prominent people from Pittsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Sharp have taken up the Cliff as their summer quarters and will remain until the close of the season.

The carriage line to the Peak was opened for the season yesterday and the traffic for the first day's business was very heavy.

Six guests of the Sunny Side took advantage of the opening of the Pike's Peak carriage line and went up the Peak yesterday.

W. E. Jones of the Iron Springs hotel spent yesterday at Cripple Creek on business. Mr. Jones is heavily interested in properties at the gold camp.

A large crowd attended the dance at the Iron Springs pavilion last evening. A fine orchestra furnished the music and every one seemed to have a good time.

The Barker house orchestra, which has been secured after a large expenditure of money by the management of this hotel, will arrive from the east on Saturday.

Bert S. and S. P. Kauffman have returned to Manitou for the summer. They have been residing in Denver but will now take up their abode at the Cliff for some months.

Bicycle parties are becoming very popular at the summer resort. Every afternoon the hotel guests mount their wheels and spin up the canons for a few hours on pleasure.

The Tuxedo Trio of New York city, comprising H. J. Ramseyer, J. R. Currier and D. F. Ramseyer, have been engaged for the season and will furnish music at the Iron Springs hotel.

A number of the hotels showed their enterprise yesterday by having on file the reports from the St. Louis convention. Bulletins were posted in the rotundas of the hotels every few minutes by the Western Union company.

At a special meeting of the city fathers on Wednesday evening a large amount of important business was transacted. An ordinance restricting the hotel solicitors at the depots, was passed upon. A limit as to number of porters allowed to be on the platforms and the space for them to occupy was brought up and approved. The matter of extending the water main into Dr. Bell's place was disposed of by ordering the thing done at a cost of not over $30. Other matters of a more or less importance were brought up and settled.

The first number of the Manitou Springs Daily Journal for this summer made its appearance yesterday afternoon. As usual this neat paper is printed on the best paper and profusely illustrated with half tone engravings. Manitou should be proud of such a paper as Mr. Frowine is giving them this season and ought to patronize it in every way possible. Mr. McAdam has charge of the local department and if [illegible] is to follow there is little doubt but it will cover the ground in as good shape as it can be done.

EASTERN MARKETS.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

New York, June 18.—The stock market to-day was feverish and in the main from London. [illegible] large amounts of St. Paul, Lake [illegible] and Nashville. Atchison and other [illegible] probably those shares in all [illegible] of the downward movement. The weakness of the foreign [illegible] was [illegible] and was attributed to the [illegible] of an unfavorable turn in Venezuela matters and to a [illegible] of certain planks in the Republican platform touching on foreign affairs. The news of the Veteran [illegible] operators [illegible] London were called to this side and [illegible] with circulation and encouraged the [illegible] somewhat limited following the [illegible] hours on the short side of the [illegible]. As a matter of fact however the [illegible] for London were the prime factor at work. It may develop later that [illegible] Commercial [illegible] and the selling by London houses served as a common [illegible] to enable certain interests [illegible] to McKinley to counteract the effect of his nomination on a gold platform. The London selling at the [illegible] did not unsettle confidence and the [illegible] of long stock was of limited proportions. Holders of [illegible] were encouraged by the decisive vote at St. Louis for the gold plank and [illegible] bonds were buyers of the standard issue—the decline. The [illegible] over either at the St. Louis convention was used against the market by the traders and in the closing hour of business prices closed at the lowest point of the day. The decline ranged from ½ to 1½ per cent in the usually active list.

OSTEOPATHY! OSTEOPATHY!
America's New Science.
The Greatest Discovery In the Healing Art Made During This Century, Osteopathy Is Based Upon Common Sense and a Perfectly Rational Philosophy.

The human organism in its normal condition, is a perfect piece of mechanism, in every part so nicely adjusted that the machine runs without jar or hitch. This is [illegible].
When any of the bony framework, muscles, tendons, ligaments, blood vessels and nerves be one displaced even so little as to put pressure is made upon some part or parts and the circulation of the blood or nerve-force is obstructed, producing local congestion and pain, the Beginning of Disease.
If the obstruction of the blood or nerve-force continues long enough, the disease becomes chronic and the health is slowly but surely undermined.
Osteopathy seeks to remove all these obstructions to the circulation of the blood and other fluids of the body by adjusting all dislocations or displacements of whatever kind, restoring the healthy mechanism, to a normal perfect condition, as originally designed by an All-Wise Creator.
To do this Osteopathy does not employ massage, magnetism, faith cure, drugs or any other empirical means, but makes use of a thorough knowledge of anatomy, and physiology, restoring every part to its proper position by means of skilful manipulations.
Osteopathy has long since passed the Stage of Experiment.
Thousands testify to its superior efficiency in the treatment of all manner of diseases to which human flesh is heir.
People in every State in the Union bless Osteopathy for deliverance from the bondage of disease.
The diseases most successfully treated are Asthma, Consumption, Granulated Eyelids, Sore Eyes, Enlarged Tonsils, Loss of Voice, Hemorrhages, Heart Disease, Varicose Veins, Milk Leg, Female Diseases, Constipation, Dyspepsia, Gout, Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Diseases, Spinal Curvature, Paralysis, Dislocations of all kinds, Hip Joint Disease, Wasted or Stiffened Limbs, Piles and all Rectal Diseases; in fact, all diseases by an obstruction either to the circulation of the Blood or Nerve-Force.
